About Us

Since 1940, participants of the United States Department of State International Visitor Leadership Program (IVLP) have come to the U. S. from all over the world to meet with their professional counterparts and to experience the nation first-hand. The emphasis of the IVLP is to increase mutual understanding through communication at the personal and professional levels.

Delegates are up-and-coming leaders in a variety of fields including business, government, education, and the arts. Over 500 IVLP alumni are current or former Heads of Government or Chiefs of State and include President Anwar Sadat of Egypt, President Nicolas Sarkozy of France, Prime Minister Indira Gandhi of India, and Prime Ministers Gordon Brown, Tony Blair, and Margaret Thatcher of the United Kingdom.

The Young Professionals Group promotes social & educational opportunities between area young professionals & international visitors, making the world just a little bit smaller through exclusive events.

2015 Pensacola Mud Run with Ukrainians

The IVLP Benefits the Community by:

- Promoting the area as a center of commerce, culture, and tourism
- Presenting opportunities for businesses and universities to create new ties with foreign counterparts and to strengthen existing ones
- Offering extra hands to volunteer organizations; As a word for “volunteerism” does not exist in some languages, an important part of many IVLP projects is for delegates to spend a half-day volunteering.
- Having delegates available for presentations to students & local civic organizations
- Giving young professionals the opportunity to create their own personal and professional worldwide relationships.

Citizen Diplomacy is the idea that an individual citizen has the right & responsibility to help shape U.S. foreign relations.

Young Professionals Benefit by:

- Learning about other cultures & exchanging ideas with foreign counterparts
- Knowing their service helps the U.S. government meet its foreign policy goals
- Participating in improving the U.S. image in the global community
- Meeting tomorrow’s world leaders today
